TORMEY'S No-119

A sport of Lady Vansittart with similar characteristics in every way except that the flower is of a coloring similar to Albert & Elizabeth azalea, a grainy pink, with some fine red streaks, the color fading out at petal edges, leaving a broad white border.

VICTORIA PINK (Local Name)

Peoniform, high centered, large, clear pink flower, with many petals.

VICTORIA PINK No-2 (Local Name)

Similar to above, but of a much deeper pink color.

The following Camellia Varieties as described in this supplement and in our booklet "CAMELLIAS OF MERIT" are varieties not generally found to enjoy a wide distribution and in many instances are un-known except in Southern California. Many are of varieties which probably came in through Pacific Coast Ports direct from the Orient. Many of them are introductions by local growers who have produced them from seed and sports. Some are of varieties introduced for the first time at the start of the 1945 and 1946 seasons. All have received more than usual favor by those attending shows held in Glendale and Pasadena, Calif. under the management of the Pacific Camellia Society of Glendale and the Southern California Camellia Society of Pasadena.
